

Pitch:

As I had medicine to take at the pharmacy, and went to buy it, I was faced with an issue, the pharmacy had no more left, same for its generics.

That is why we came up with the idea of creating an app that would display the availability of a medicine, as well as proposing generics for that medicine, as well as a way to dispose of remaining or expired medicine.

Similarly, it would be a way to search for practitioners and listing their speciality.

5 out of the 5 pharmacies that were asked would follow this project.

This platform will be a collaborative platform, allowing users to give feedback on practitioners, with a refined version, easily changable for seniors and people that would be overwhelmed, and most of all, remind users of their medical appointments and which drugs they need to take, and when.

All of this would allow to centralize the patient's information, reducing the time needed for patients to display their previous surgeries or current diseases.

This project would correspond mainly to the UN Sustainable development goal 3, good health and well-being, and in lesser proportions, the goals 5 and 6, respectively about gender equality and clean water and sanitation.
